

Pump Protection

Warning: Pump Protection Boxes carry a lot of electrical current. Only experienced technicians should work on them.

Pump Protection Box

A Pump Protection Box is a higher level (much higher) of protection for your submersible pump. The Pump Protection Box is much more effective than a low-water-cutout switch. This unit detects the changes in the pumps electrical phase that indicate a dry well or a frozen water line. It comes with various settings that allow this unit to manage automatic and manual restarts. Ideal for those homeowners who are tired of manually resetting a low-water-cutout pressure switch.
